

The book was found

Policing In The 21st Century: Community Policing

Synopsis

Dr. Lee P. Brown, one of America's most significant and respected law enforcement practitioners, has harnessed his thirty years of experiences in police work and authored Policing in the 21st Century: Community Policing. Written for students, members of the police community, academicians, elected officials and members of the public, this work comes from the perspective of an individual who devoted his life to law enforcement. Dr. Brown began his career as a beat patrolman who through hard work, diligence and continued education became the senior law enforcement official in three of this nation's largest cities. The book is about Community Policing, the policing style for America in the Twenty-First Century. It not only describes the concept in great detail, but it also illuminates how it evolved, and how it is being implemented in various communities throughout America. There is no other law enforcement official or academician who is as capable as Dr. Brown of masterfully presenting the concept of Community Policing, which he pioneered. As a philosophy, Community Policing encourages law enforcement officials, and the people they are sworn to serve, to cooperatively address issues such as crime, community growth, and societal development. It calls for mutual respect and understanding between the police and the community. The book is written from the perspective of someone whose peers identify as the "father" of Community Policing, and who personally implemented it in Police Departments under his command. It is a thoroughly amazing book that has been heralded as a "must read" for anyone who has an interest in law enforcement. Elected officials, academicians, leaders of the nation's police agencies and members of the public will be captivated by Dr. Brown's literary contribution.

Book Information

Paperback: 618 pages

Publisher: AuthorHouse (December 29, 2012)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 1468540998

ISBN-13: 978-1468540994

Product Dimensions: 6 x 1.6 x 9 inches

Shipping Weight: 2.2 pounds (View shipping rates and policies)

Average Customer Review: 1.9 out of 5 stars 19 customer reviews

Best Sellers Rank: #1,046,328 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #19 in Books > Law >

Administrative Law > Public Contract #773 in Books > Biographies & Memoirs > Professionals &

Academics > Law Enforcement #1015 in Books > Law > Criminal Law > Criminal Procedure

Customer Reviews

Dr. Lee P. Brown, one of America's most significant and respected law enforcement practitioners, has harnessed his thirty years of experiences in police work and authored Policing in the 21st Century: Community Policing. Written for students, members of the police community, academicians, elected officials and members of the public, this work comes from the perspective of an individual who devoted his life to law enforcement. Dr. Brown began his career as a beat patrolman who through hard work, diligence and continued education became the senior law enforcement official in three of this nation's largest cities. The book is about Community Policing, the policing style for America in the Twenty-First Century. It not only describes the concept in great detail, but it also illuminates how it evolved, and how it is being implemented in various communities throughout America. There is no other law enforcement official or academician who is as capable as Dr. Brown of masterfully presenting the concept of Community Policing, which he pioneered. As a philosophy, Community Policing encourages law enforcement officials, and the people they are sworn to serve, to cooperatively address issues such as crime, community growth, and societal development. It calls for mutual respect and understanding between the police and the community. The book is written from the perspective of someone whose peers identify as the "father" of Community Policing, and who personally implemented it in Police Departments under his command. It is a thoroughly amazing book that has been heralded as a "must read" for anyone who has an interest in law enforcement. Elected officials, academicians, leaders of the nation's police agencies and members of the public will be captivated by Dr. Brown's literary contribution.

I read this pile of garbage from cover to cover. Mandatory reading for a promotion exam. The single most racist book I have laid my eyes upon. The suggestion that there should be 3 police departments (black, white, collegiate). The suggestion that civil service exams be watered down to meet the education level of minorities in our society so that they can be police officers. Nothing in here discusses equality and diversity. The best part is that it the author only discusses theory, no practical application. The author does not outline how to achieve the goals of community policing. It almost seems like some magical circumstances occur and BAM we have a utopian police department. The best part is that the author spends quite a bit of time talking about how great he is and how he is the greatest pioneer in policing. He speaks about how he was the chief in multiple departments, mayor of Huston, worked for slick willie Clinton. Etc etc etc. All of theses woo hoo things. Who cares! So if you have to study for a test, don't bother. It wont help. This text is the most repetitive thing on the shelf, no amount of memorization will help (short of an idetic memory). Take my advice, get a book on study techniques, strategies and test question structure. You will have a much better shot.

This could have been half as long if it weren't for the author rambling on about himself and repeating himself over and over. He proclaimed himself to be the "father of community policing" when most accounts of community policing never mention him. However, Joseph D. McNamara was given that title. He places himself on the same level as true historical contributors and pioneers in policing such as August Vollmer, J. Edgar Hoover, and Herman Goldstein. He uses the word "I" very frequently as if he is responsible for greatness when in fact, simple research into the organizations he claimed to have made great strides in no longer use any of the program's he initiated save one or two. This much self-bragging really encourages me to question the claims this author makes about himself. The content of the book is good once you get past the self-centered display of his PhD. However, none of the concepts are original to the author and at the same time he was initiating the program's he spoke about, so we're many other departments in the country. I recommend reading true works by true academics and practitioners who have produced true research data and made true strides in the improvement of policing.

Reverse racism, dangerous officer safety practices, general crap. Written by someone who has NEVER done this kind of work. This is just leftist garbage that is completely untenable.

Wow. First, this book rambles on for over 500 pages. The author is clearly enamored with himself and makes outlandish claims as if he invented the question mark. Besides rambling on for a dry, repetitive 500 pages the book is FULL of spelling and grammatical errors that most middle school children could point out. The author continually refers to "comstat" and I assume he is referring to CompStat which was created in NYC where the author served as Police Commissioner (it's true, he tells you like 300 times throughout the book).

Looking over the reviews on this book I have to agree with the negative reviews. This text was over 500 pages long and I firmly believe that the core ideas and principles of this book could have been easily conveyed in about 200-250 pages. Clearly, the author was very impressed with himself. Dr. Brown lays claim to being the father of Community Policing he also mentioned that he introduced the concept of Community Policing to the people of South Africa. I was unable to substantiate either of these claims. In the preface, the author states that he received his Ph.D. in 1970 and that this book is based on his 30 years in law enforcement. Perhaps a better name for this text would be "Community Policing in the 20th Century"? The author rambles on about concepts and topics he makes reference to video tape and other dated media formats He would drone on about new programs, processes, changes, and cutting edge methods that he implemented in different government entities that he lead. In the next paragraph he would state that after he left office the involved entity reverted back to the way things were before Dr. Brown's arrival. I would never tell anyone that this was a "great read" or suggest that they select it as optional reading to learn about community policing. I can not help but think that there has got to be a more current and better written text about community policing.

This book is ridiculous and redundant. A waste of money. Seems like half the book the author writes about himself and the other half is information he got from the Internet. Also it's very annoying that he refers to himself in the third person everytime he talks about himself, which is about 300 of the 600 pages. Not a fan of this book.

Too many spelling & grammar errors to take seriously. Additionally, the author repeats himself several times throughout the chapters congratulating himself on his accomplishments. I read this as a required reading for a promotional exam. I do not recommend it if you want to read it voluntarily.

Worst book ever written. I doubt it was even edite because here were so many word usage errors and one paragraph just ended in mid-sentence. He contradicts himself several times and even calls his own principles by the wrong name a few times..

Download to continue reading...

Introduction to Cybercrime: Computer Crimes, Laws, and Policing in the 21st Century: Computer Crimes, Laws, and Policing in the 21st Century (Praeger Security International) Policing in the 21st Century: Community Policing Leadership, Ethics and Policing: Challenges for the 21st Century (2nd Edition) Introduction to Cybercrime: Computer Crimes, Laws, and Policing in the 21st Century (Praeger Security International) Belwin's 21st Century Guitar Method, Bk 1: The Most Complete Guitar Course Available, Book & Online Audio (Belwin's 21st Century Guitar Course) Belwin's 21st Century Guitar Ensemble 1: The Most Complete Guitar Course Available (Student Book) (Belwin's 21st Century Guitar Course) Belwin's 21st Century Guitar Method 1: Spanish Language Edition (Book & CD) (Belwin's 21st Century Guitar Course) (Spanish Edition) Belwin 21st Century Band Method, Level 2 flute (Belwin 21st Century Band Method) The Confessions: (Vol. I/1) Revised, (The Works of Saint Augustine: A Translation for the 21st Century) (The Works of Saint Augustine: A Translation for the 21st Century, Vol. 1) Roget's 21st Century Thesaurus, Third Edition (21st Century Reference) Creating America: 1877 to the 21st Century: Student Edition Â© 2005 1877 to the 21st Century 2005 EMS Workforce for the 21st Century: A National Assessment (Public Health in the 21st Century) Community Policing: Partnerships for Problem Solving Planning and Community Development: A Guide for the 21st Century Community Health Education: Settings, Roles, and Skills for the 21st Century Waging Nonviolent Struggle: 20th Century Practice And 21st Century Potential Finding Community: How to Join an Ecovillage or Intentional Community Community Organizing and Community Building for Health and Welfare, 3rd Edition The Four Seasons of Shaker Life: An Intimate Portrait of the Community at Sabbathday Lake (Last Shaker Community) The Community Table: Recipes & Stories from the Jewish Community Center in Manhattan & Beyond

Contact Us

DMCA

Privacy

FAQ & Help