Victimology

Synopsis

Drawing from the most up-to-date research, Victimology is an accessible, student-friendly text that provides students with an overview of the field of Victimology. Renowned authors and researchers Leah E. Daigle and Lisa R. Muftic expertly relay the history and development in this growing field to equip students with a strong foundation from which to build. Students will develop an understanding for why people are victimized, as well as how the Criminal Justice system and other social services interact with victims and each other. Students will also receive information about specific types of victimization, including contemporary issues such as stalking, hate crimes, human trafficking, terrorism, and more!

Customer Reviews

"Crime victimization has emerged as one of the most central, timely, and critical issues to understand among policymakers, practitioners, and academics. Daigle and Muftic have crafted an excellent resource for students and professionals alike to learn about the "big picture" as well as the more detailed problems and solutions surrounding victimology. This book is approachable, digestible, and leaves the reader with a comprehensive understanding of the state of victimology - and the key areas that will increasingly become important in the future." --Kate Fox

"Victimology is an expansive field making it a challenge to cover well in a single text. Nevertheless, Daigle and Muftic, two respected and prolific researchers, have done just that with their comprehensive coverage of victimology in their new text. I find that this work offers everything one needs to gain a broad understanding about victimology in a single source. It is welcome addition to the victimology literature and a text sure to be widely used and appreciated."--Callie M.
