"Black cat. / Gray cat. / Rich cat. / Stray cat. begins the oh-so-familiar tale. "Slinky cat. / Stinky cat. / Silly cat. / Chilly cat. A large font with only two to four words per page will ensure that the earliest readers can experience success in reading. As the text progresses, the cats hurry to a meeting place: "All these cats, they like one thing. / All these cats, they like to . . . With a turn of the page, emergent readers will be rewarded with having predicted the next word: "Sing. The vibrant illustrations have a coloring-book feel, but the cats are nevertheless adorable. Full of energy, the pictures add touches of conflict, like when the white cat stands in front of a freshly painted fence and becomes a green cat. A cellist practicing on a balcony has to compete with the yowling cats, but much to the musician's chagrin, one of the cats has the last word. This amusing addition to the Step into Reading series is sure to tickle readers' funny bones. Preschool-Grade 1. --Patricia Austin

Very cute and easy to read

Very cute book for beginning readers. Will definitely give your child a head start with early reading.

Adorable, especially if your child is a cat lover. A great easy reader! One of the easiest "Step Into Reading Books." Truly a Level 1 book!

Surprisingly, I'm not a huge fan of this book. Very reminiscent of Betsy Lewin's "Cat Count". I was hoping it would be a little longer. If we didn't already have "Cat Count," I'm sure I would like it more. Purchased for my daughter's (3rd) birthday.

Very simple book and words, but a great confidence booster for your beginning reader. Even though my daughter has this memorized, it is still one of her favorites. She loves the different punctuation and practicing how to use it correctly. Fun book, easy read.

my 5 year old daughter really enjoys this book, it's about cats, which makes her happy & she (at her kindergarten reading level) can read the whole book with little to no help. which is hugely awesome & encouraging for her!

My kindergartener daughter loves this book! One of her favorites to read out loud. She has been keeping it in her backpack to read on the bus.

My son loves these books. He is in kindergarten and starting to read and is able to read this. Will purchase others.
