Gr 3-5-Despite repeated references to the "thrill of the hunt" in Deer and descriptive opening scenarios in every volume, these introductions for young anglers and hunters (Camping is the odd title out) fail to provoke real enthusiasm or provide sufficiently specific information. Though the color photos do show young people of both sexes in camouflage or blaze orange vests armed with guns, bows, or fishing rods as appropriate, the texts are skimpy. For example, in Deer readers are encouraged to field dress their kills but are not shown how, and in Bowhunting prospective hunters are left to guess what a "string silencer" might be. Coverage is not systematic either: a list of bow-hunted animals includes bears(!) but not fish even though fish are mentioned later, and the techniques in Fishing do not include fly fishing. This was bought at a birthday gift for my son. He has been talking about wanting to get into hunting for write a while now. The book is in fantastic condition and seems to hold his attention very well. He really had enjoyed it so far.

Although it's a good quality product (good colors and photos) and a rare find in this day and age, there's not much to the book. It's very thin and almost more of a pamphlet book. It's a Christmas gift for a 8 yr old, so let's see how he likes it.

This book is perfect to keep the attention for a little hunter while reading.

awesome

Great to teach your kids

A great little book if you child likes bow hunting or is learning how to use a bow.

good book for kids who love hunting

Enjoyed reading this book. Informative, easy to read for beginning hunters. My son really thought it was cool to learn about bow huntinh
