Ed Hindson, assistant chancellor and dean of the School of Divinity at Liberty University in Virginia, is speaker on The King Is Coming telecast and the author and general editor of 40 books. He holds a DMin from Westminster Theological Seminary and PhD from University of South Africa. Ergun Caner holds M.Div. and Th.M. degrees from Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary and a Th.D. from the University of South Africa. The author of several books, including Gold Medallion winner Unveiling Islam, Caner is the Provost and Vice President of Academic Affairs at Arlington Baptist College in Texas.

Excellent book, very well organized and surprisingly durable for a $20-25 hardcover. Outlines basic concepts really well. Having been made religiously illiterate from relying on the King James Bible throughout my youth, discovering apologetics has really helped my understanding of Christianity. However, I think the best feature of this book is how it outlines other religions in comparison to Christianity, and highlights their distinctions to refute the often-made claim that religions just borrow concepts from each other.

Thank you for sending this book in such great condition. This book for anybody that wants to know is loaded with the best information for someone that's doing any kind of biblical studies on apologetics. It will also help with things in a worldly manner. I have never seen a book written this way. There were many people that contributed to this book. You can see that's the same for many other books. However, this book literally has the reviews and personal documentation from those that have journeyed through the information they personally were researching and needed for themselves and those they were teaching. In all that is what makes this Encyclopedia the best on the topic of Popular Apologetics.

Ed Hindson and Ergun Caner have done an outstanding job bringing together the writings of some of the best apologists to share insights about topics from Abortion to Arianism to Docetism, Gnosticism, Postmodernism and Secular Humanism. The Popular Encyclopedia of Apologetics is one of the best resources I've seen in one volume for Christians who want to learn more about defending the Christian Faith. If you are on a limited budget for purchasing books, be sure to put this one at the top of your list.

This is one of my favorite books. I have literally used this in almost every one of my research papers, from Criminal Justice to Psychological papers.

This is a must have for all cwho claim Jesus Christ today. This lets you read historically, factually, and evangelistically the different things you will encounter while sharing your faith or talking to people. If you want to win souls and be effective at training others to share their faith, get this book today.

Great!

I think this work largely accomplished what it set out to do, be a quick reference to popular issues in apologetics. I don't know if I like this being called an encyclopedia though, this fits more into a category like "Holman's QuickSource Guides" (Doug Powell's is excellent by the way). One of its strong points is its breadth of subject matter. From Plantinga's Reformed Epistemology to the analogy of being to mentioning the UFO cult the Nuwaubians (it's about time!), this book has a taste of just about everything you wouldn't possibly think of. And don't let Ergun Caner's name dissuade you; he may be highly unpopular but the rest of the Liberty University faculty that contributed to this work are pretty cool guys (I had them for professors). So if you're looking for something that gets to meat with out alot of bones on a wide range of subjects, this is your book.

Plenty of great information on a wide variety of topics surrounding apologetics. I purchased it for a class at Liberty University, but will keep it for future reference material.
