John Elder is chair of the environmental studies department at Middlebury College. His books include Reading the Mountains of Home. Robert Finch has lived on Cape Cod for more than forty years, currently in Wellfleet, Massachusetts. He is the author of seven collections of essays, most recently of his radio scripts for his weekly radio broadcast, "A Cape Cod Notebook," on the Cape and Islands NPR station, WCAI.

This is the best nature writing book I have ever used for my university level Nature Writing course. My students love the selections. I can see their appreciation not only for nature but for vocabulary and style grow during the semester. They refer to the text often in their oral presentations and essays. It is most gratifying to have students read because they cannot put the book down. They also are going for the original texts so they can read more of the authors. Good job, Norton.

This book opened my eyes to nature writing. This collection of essays is inspiring.

This is a good collection of authors and stories. You'll want to buy entire books by the individual authors when you read this.

Excellent resource. Exceptional variety of work.

I had to have this for a course I took and kept it after because it is so fabulous! The collection of short stories are amazing!

This book gives great insight into nature writing, and the things to think about when sitting down with pen and paper (or computer). I enjoyed the mix of poetry and essays.

Superb collection.
