Customer Reviews

A Three-Dimensional Victorian Doll House is one of our best-sellers and sure to please little girls from 3 to 10! This is a 4 section hardcover carousel playset with pop-ups, press-out pieces and a ribbon closure.

I got this Victorian House book for our almost-7-yr-old daughter and she loves it. The details are really incredible and there are plenty of little doors to open and hidden things to explore. It has been great as a quiet activity plus there's no mess; when she's finished playing, it just folds up and stashes away until next time. I added a customer image -- when unfolded, the two-story house stands about 20" tall from the top of the chimney to the floor. My only complaint is that I'm having a hard time getting it to flatten out. The creases in the floor and roof remain bent even when the book is folded completely out and tied nice and tight. I'm subtracting one star since this means the figures won't stand in the house without falling down. Bummer! I got the Medieval Castle book in the same series for my almost-5-yr-old son but apparently a child of his age is prone to being a bit too rough on it. Even though the paper dolls are made of a thicker stock paper, they do still bend easily. We'll be putting his away for a couple years until he can be a bit more careful. Overall, I'm very happy with my purchase and would recommend it for children ages 6 and up.

This makes me wish I were a child again! People are not included, but I have a booklet of Polly Pratt (Victorian) paper dolls in a variety of sizes, most of which are sure to be just right. Anyone who loves dolls and dollhouses will love this beautifully detailed treasure. To turn the book into a toy or display object, open completely and use the ribbon to tie the front and back covers together.

My mom was delighted. A few of the parts were missing but I knew it not brand new. It's like a real doll house when you have no room for a real one!

I am very happy with this pop-up Victorian doll-house book. I mailed it to my granddaughter's 3rd birthday. I live on the east coast and she lives on the west. The apartment where she lives is small but I wanted her to have a play house, this was the next best thing. She loves it and plays with it often.

My 11 year old daughter fell in love with this doll house book at Opryland in Nashville. However, I was not willing to concede to the price on it ($25). She is a paper doll fanatic, even designing her own paper dolls and selling them to friends. I told her to wait until we got home and we'd see if it was available cheaper. Sure enough! for $9!! We were both thrilled! She has taken this portable doll house everywhere and gotten much use out of it. The book opens up and fastens together, revealing intricate detail for a doll house in the Victorian era. She was especially delighted with the closets that open and can store things (like the dolls that come with the house) and the toilet seat that actually opens and the bathtub that the dolls can actually sit in. For a girl who loves doll houses or paper dolls - this is a gem!!

found this book @ goodwill and bought for my granddaughter. She loved it, but it got torn up so, I looked on and found it and now she has her new 3-dimensional Victorian Doll House. When I visit, she and I play with it.

Such an amazing book! I have the Edwardian Doll House as well, and this one is just as cute and just as detailed. My daughter gets hours and hours of fun out of these, and I love them because 1) there are no tiny fiddly bits to get lost, 2) the whole thing folds up and sits neatly on a shelf, and 3) they're just adorable!

Bought several years ago, my granddaughter still loves it.
