Customer Reviews

Diane Maddex, formerly the director of the National Trust for Historic Preservation’s Preservation Press, is the president of Arche-type Press and the author of many award-winning books on the American home.

As one who is a big fan of Frank Lloyd Wright and lives on a small Bungalow home, I found this volume full of helpful, creative, and inspiring ideas. The book has many photographs which reference the Usonian homes of FLW and is filled with new interpretations for the homeowner of today. If you have challenges with space and want to get some solutions to your issues, yet keep true to your love of simple, functional design, this is a wonderful resource for you!

I bought this as a gift for my HB ... who was more FLW books than I can count at this point. (Almost all of them purchased by me over the years for birthdays, anniversaries, etc.) We’re starting to run out of material! This book is significantly different than those that are focussed purely on the architecture, discussing much more about the materials FLW used and how the design elements affected living spaces. The photographs are beautiful and the text is well written. I’m glad I found this one!

For me, it is a new look at the architecture of Frank Lloyd Wright. It is very readable and I love the photographs. Not just a coffee table book.

Use this a lot. Great

Great book, TONS of great ideas, a whole new way of looking at house design AND Frank Lloyd Wright!

Nice book with beautiful pictures, limited in scope.

Our son loved this book. It's a nice coffee table type book plus it is great for suggestions on design.

What a wonderful price and GREAT book! Perfect for any coffee table.
