It's difficult to "bridge the gap" between the notes on the music and what keys they correspond with. This is a great teaching too. It's visual. I treat it as something I want my students to "memorize" as they would something for school. Not only does it show the names of the notes on the keys, more importantly, it shows the notes as they appear on the bass and treble staff.

I debated between this keyboard guide and the stickers and then chose this. It's great as you can easily take it away once certain notes are mastered and always bring it back again to introduce or reinforce new notes. It also has the musical keys on it (not visible in the picture they have of it on here), so you don't just have the letter names but also see on this guide what the note looks like in the staff.

This is an amazing fold out sheet of paper for a beginner. You simply place it behind your keys on your keyboard or piano and there you have all the keys you'll need to play. If you are somewhere where you can't play piano it makes a great practice sheet too. You can do all the fingerings while traveling or whatever you are doing where you can't actually play a real piano. I really love this sheet and am glad that I purchased it. I recommend this sheet to anyone who is learning how to play.

I've only been learning for a few months so I'm pretty basic regarding my knowledge. I am learning fingering, pedaling, how to read music, what keys correspond to what notes and where they're located on the keyboard... it can be pretty overwhelming. I have a Yamaha P95 keyboard and this guide aligns perfectly with the keys. I find it very useful to use as a reference tool when I'm aligning to start a piece or if I get lost and need to reset my finger positions. Of note is that in addition to the keys and notes displayed in the picture, the musical notes are printed on the guide as well. Very useful that. The only problem I have is that I have the guide set upright at the back of the keys. The guide is about 5 inches high so it blocks the bottom measure of the sheet music on my stand. I get around this by propping my book up on the stand using an eraser. I'll have to find about a 1" square wooden dowel to do this so I don't have to balance the songbook. I didn't want to gig the product because of that because there are so many keyboard and piano designs that it's impossible for one size to fit all. On another keyboard, it may not block any piece of your songbook at all.

A great piano guide that spans an entire 88-key piano. It feels like durable card stock. All of my new and beginner piano students love this. I tried this guide after losing a similar one with cut-outs at the black keys. That one was much sturdier while playing. This one needs to be taped down. Good for the price though.

I can't believe how inexpensive this item is. ($1.99!!) And I can't wait to use it in my beginning keyboard class. I can see how it will help me visualize the proper keys. Another reviewer mentioned that it doesn't fit on the keyboard but I'm not worried about that. I plan to just lay it on the table and pretend play until I actually know a little (I know absolutely nothing now). I only wish the black keys were in the back as they are on a keyboard. Other than that I think it's a great learning tool.

Simple but helpful for beginners. It sits right above the keys for easy reference.

This is a worth buy if you are a adult beginner like me. Gives an idea about all 88 keys on a Piano/Keyboard (I have a 61 keys Yamaha YPT-320). Recommended as an add on to any other tutorial/book
