A little guide written professionally and passionately for parents and coaches. Having children who are keen to succeed in the sport they love, who are having a dream, need support. This book is not about 'empower struggle and authorial discipline' but about how to help these young athletes to follow their dream, to be resilient and to remain focussed, mentally and physically, by encouraging and stimulating their self motivation and self discipline together with a healthy lifestyle, so it becomes natural to them without enforcement. A book which is not about cheering on the side line but by being actively involved with a total positive approach. A must have for parents, coaches and teachers; an eye opener.
