The Complete Illustrated Book Of Development Definitions

Synopsis

The latest edition of The Illustrated Book of Development Definitions breaks new ground. It addresses traditional and new planning problems: natural and industrial disasters such as hurricanes and oil spills; new housing types and living accommodations; changes in urban design and practice like new urbanism; sustainability; pedestrian and bicycle friendly environments; and more. Joining Harvey S. Moskowitz and Carl G. Lindbloom, authors of the first three editions, are two prominent, nationally known planners: David Listokin and Richard Preiss. Attorney Dwight H. Merriam adds legal annotations to almost all 2,276 definitions. These citations from court decisions bridge the gap between land use theory and real world application, bringing a new dimension to this edition. More than 20,000 copies of previous editions were sold over four decades to professionals and government representatives, such as members of planning and zoning boards and municipal governing bodies. This first revision in ten years updates what is widely acknowledged as an essential, standard reference for planners.

On the second edition: "A useful guide to understanding the development lingo." Rural Development Perspectives
On the third edition: "This specialized glossary, a working tool for urban planners and city management officials who compose local ordinances, is also very useful for students enrolled in urban or regional programs. Heavily revised and expanded from earlier editions, this edition is a key reference source, made valuable by several unique attributes not commonly associated with dictionaries: it is illustrated (increasingly, city ordinances are containing illustrations); it includes commentaries and annotations to indicate how a term or phrase is to be used; it sufficiently generalizes the differing codes of various municipalities and states to level such barriers and still be accurate and useful in most US jurisdictions; and it reflects current interpretation and practice in land use (which has undergone remarkable change), noting significant growth in the suburbs and developments in industrial and retail sectors. Containing 1,955 definitions alphabetically arranged, 787 commentaries, and 102 illustrations, it is the only source of its kind. The vocabulary is rich, legal interpretations are treated with care, cross-references are numerous, and the bibliography is current. . . . Highly recommended. • J. Gelfand, Choice On the third edition: “[An] impressive A-Z reference book.” • Yves Laberge, Urban Geography “An invaluable reference for anyone involved in land development planning and regulation.” • Richard Roland, The Western Planner “The most complete reference on the subject. Frequently used by PAS researchers.” • Stuart Meck, AICP and Shannon Paul, PASMemo, APA

Harvey S. Moskowitz PP, FAICP, is a planning consultant and a former member and past president of the New Jersey Board of Professional Planners and was formerly on the board of directors of the American Planning Association and the New Jersey Site Improvement Advisory Board. Carl G. Lindbloom AICP, is a planning and urban design consultant with over fifty years’ experience in both the private and public sector. David Listokin is a professor at the Edward J. Bloustein School at Planning and Public Policy at Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey. Richard Preiss, P.P., has served as a principal of Phillips Preiss Grygiel LLC, a planning and real estate consulting firm in New York City and now in Hoboken, New Jersey, for over thirty years. Dwight H. Merriam, a fellow and past president of the American Planning Association’s American Institute of Certified Planners, founded Robinson & Cole’s Land Use Group in 1978.
